HYDROTHERAPY THROUGH HISTORY

According to legend, Pegasus the winged horse was fathered by Poseidon, God of the oceans, and mothered by Medusa – yes, the one with all the snakes in her hair! As an immortal, he inspired all who rode him to achieve great deeds. Probably as a legacy of his father’s genes, Pegasus was credited with leaving a well of water wherever he galloped.

Water was a vital source to ancient civilisations for cleanliness, relaxation and general good health. As early as the 5th century BC, the Greek physician Hippocrates recommended natural spring water for its curative effects and the Romans developed and raised spas to an art form. Their public bathing areas became centres of civic and social life and their understanding of the benefits of hydrotherapy led to the establishment of spa centres throughout the Roman Empire. Many a heated argument was probably tempered in this soothing environment.

The revitalizing qualities of the hot springs in Bath were known well before the Roman Occupation and yet most British spa towns developed in the 18th and 19th centuries, when they represented the good life and attracted the social ‘glitterati’ of the day. To be fashionable, one would announce the intention of ‘taking the waters’ and those who could not afford such luxury were not part of the in-crowd.

As treatments and techniques have evolved, so has the accessibility of hydrotherapy. We are now aware that quality of life and life balancing are equally important to well-being as exercise, healthy diet and relaxation. So where, traditionally, hydrotherapy consisted of baths, saunas and compresses, it is now more readily provided – in our own homes – via whirlpools and water jets.

Though it may be a great way to impress the neighbours, a whirlpool bath is not just a luxury. It presents an endless source of fun to very small children, whose bathtime might otherwise be a nightly battle zone; it also provides a regenerative experience at the end of a long day at work or a gentle, massaging relief from aches and pains for those suffering from debilitating conditions such as arthritis and rheumatism.
From humble beginnings, Whirlpool Express has always been famous for its ability to convert virtually any bath into a whirlpool bath.

We pride ourselves on offering the latest technology on virtually any manufacturer’s bath. We have a list of over 700 different baths that we have converted into whirlpool baths. In fact it is well known in the trade that we can usually fit to baths that other whirlpool companies say can’t be jetted... and this is done without any compromise on jet positions or hygiene. If someone tells you it can’t be done - we can usually find a solution!

Our exciting new range of luxury whirlpool systems includes some features never before seen on whirlpool baths manufactured in the UK. Water level sensing and modern pop-up-wastes are included as standard. Options include pulsating massage, FM Radio, Chromotherapy colour lights, in-bath disinfection and even remote control units.

All whirlpool baths are built to order and we are usually able to deliver a completed whirlpool system within seven days of receiving the bath. Simply choose your bath and then decide which of our whirlpool systems most suits your needs.

Jet positioning is a very important consideration when purchasing a whirlpool system. We have been led by our customers’ demands for hydrotherapy and even our most basic system includes two back jets and two feet jets. Why? Simply because at some time or other everyone suffers from backache and aching feet, especially the ladies after a bit of retail therapy! To ease those aching muscles it is important that the body is relaxed and that the therapy is directed onto the strained areas. For that reason our back jets are placed low in the bath and with the directional capability the stream of aerated water can easily be directed to the lower lumbar region.

Our new powerful Advantage jets are unique in that they force water down into the bath at an angle of 20 degrees, onto and under the bather, whereas traditionally-designed jets direct the massage towards the top of the bath and over the bather. Twisting the nozzles through 180 degrees reduces the flow of air through the venturi for when the body needs a gentler massage.
Just as Mercury, the winged messenger to the gods, was the first to bring news to many people, our Mercury whirlpool system is the first in the Pegasus Hydromassage range of whirlpool systems from Whirlpool Express.

As an entry-level system our emphasis is to bring top quality whirlpool bathing within a budget, with a range of optional extras to add luxury only where it is required.

Basic is not a word that describes the Mercury whirlpool system since it includes many features as standard which are considered luxury options by our competitors! Features such as: Water Level Sensing ensure that the bath cannot be run without sufficient water covering the jets - an important consideration where children are involved;

Suction safety - block our suction and the pump will stop sucking water, preventing costly damage to the pump.

Lots of custom options are also available - build your whirlpool system to suit your circumstances. Available as standard with our powerful advantage jets or you can choose to have the more minimalist microjets if you wish. Customise your Mercury whirlpool bath from a choice of silver, or stylishly coloured backplates for the controls, together with the option of adding matching headrests and bath grips to complete the look.

NEPTUNE WHIRLPOOL

The Pegasus NEPTUNE system has the addition of a Turbo Compressor which forces even more air into the Jets, increasing the buoyancy of the bather and providing a more powerful massage option to remove those aches and pains.

Affectionately described as the ‘Sugar and Spice’ whirlpool, the turbo massage can be turned on and off and increased or decreased at the touch of a button. Probably one of the most relaxing massages is achieved by selecting the automatic wave effect, increasing and decreasing the turbo power automatically.

The NEPTUNE has been a long-standing favourite of Whirlpool Express customers and we are pleased to have increased the specification of this whirlpool system by adding the Disinfection Feature as a standard option on this and all systems upwards in the range. Hygiene has always been paramount at Whirlpool Express and in addition to the disinfection program there is the ability to blow dry the pipework once the bath has emptied.

A popular option with this system is an upgrade to Hydro-Pool. This is the addition of airspa jets on the base of the bath which, with the Turbo controller gives a choice of three types of massage in one bath - Spa only, Whirlpool only and Hydro-Pool: Airspa and Whirlpool together, a truly phenomenal bathing experience!

At Whirlpool Express we like to think that we are able to respond to our customers’ demands - we have long been asked to provide a remote control and here it is. Our new remote allows control over the bath, the whirlpool and the airspa, and also the light.

Additionally, we have raised the control from the surface of the bath into its own console so that it is easier to see and use. With this larger console we have been able to include even more features as standard - digital temperature readout, electronic air control, 35watt Halogen underwater light and the possibility of an optional in-line water heater to maintain the selected temperature of the bath water. A further 9 preset massage programs fully utilize all the functions of all the whirlpool effects - simply select the program which matches your mood and let the Pegasus JUPITER wash away the aches and pains, stress and strains of the day.

CUSTOM WHIRLPOOL OPTIONS

Whirlpool Express not only manufacture a superb range of luxury Pegasus Hydromassage systems but also have the ABILITY to individually create a system to the customer’s own specification.

Positioning: All our whirlpool systems deliver general hydrotherapy to the whole body. Individual people have individual needs and we have built in the flexibility to position more jets in selected areas, such as the back, to cater for any specific massage requirements. This can be achieved by adding more Advantage jets, or even changing to our minimalist microjets for a softer, relaxing massage.

Hydropool: Air spa jets in the base of the bath - a standard feature on our Jupiter and Venus systems, and an option on our Neptune system. 16 spa jets fitted into the base of the bath inject warm air into the water, increasing buoyancy and adding to the overall relaxing hydromassage effect.

Add Jets: (in the side of the bath) 2 at a time, up to a maximum of 24 jets – typically, people will add 2 extra jets at the feet and 2 extra jets in the back, but the choice is yours! If you suffer from an aching back how about our superb array of 10 microjets (left); or for the Hydro-Pool option, the air jets in the base of the bath are added 4 at a time starting from a standard 16 up to a maximum of 32.

Tap holes: The majority of our baths are supplied without pre-drilled tapholes so that you can customise the position and type of taps as well.

Bath Filler: Don’t want an ordinary tap on your bath? - no problem. Our modern pop-up waste can easily be upgraded to a bath fill waste which will fill discreetly from behind the overflow!

Coloured control plates: On our Mercury whirlpool system change the colour of the control surrounds from the standard silver to white, pergamon, aqua green or aqua blue and then add a superb head rest to match or to contrast.

Bath pillows: Our seamless bath pillows add the final touch to a relaxing whirlpool bath. The standard pillow is designed to fit virtually any bath, using suction pads: the luxury pillow fixes to the bath on raised support legs to give a higher support for taller people. Both are easily removed for cleaning. Available in white, pergamon, silver, aqua green or aqua blue.

Bath handles: provide a functional and cosmetic option. Our super seamless, polyurethane handles have been designed to be easy to grip, and can be installed singly or either side of the bath - the choice is yours.
Water heater: If you like a long bath and want to maintain water temperature without constantly draining water out and then topping up with hot water, add an IN-LINE heater. With its in-built water level sensor it can only be operated while water is in the bath.

Chromotherapy: Need to relax body and mind at the end of a long day? Chromotherapy is probably the most popular light accessory today. We have a range of models which can be incorporated into baths and showers, especially steam showers. They can be fitted to virtually any bath, including steel baths and baths without whirlpool systems! Our latest Colourtherapy system has a 60 LED bright superlight system. This single superlight can be increased to 4 individual superlights depending on the amount of space to be influenced. The control pad includes a range of mood light programmes especially created for 'Tonic', 'Relax', and 'Energy', in addition to the standard individual light selection.

Underwater lights are fully featured too. To ensure a true bright light we specify a choice of 35watt and 50watt Halogen bulbs. The inclusion of a safety water level sensor means that the light can only work when there is water in the bath to dissipate the heat, thereby eliminating the possibility of costly damage to the bath by someone accidentally turning the light on when it is empty!
Simply choose your bath, then choose the Pegasus Hydromassage features you want to enjoy. Leave the rest to us and we will make the transformation as close to your requirements as is possible. The bath will be factory fitted and water tested, and then delivered to you ready for your installer to fit. Apart from the provision of an electrical supply from the ring main, there are generally no additional requirements.

If you do not express any preference for positioning the jets and the controls, the bath will be fitted with two back jets and two feet jets, with the balance of the jets on the sides of the bath. Controls will be placed where we consider it best for the bath and the user.

Even if you have no special requirements for customisation, it is always helpful for us to know the proposed positioning of the bath and other items that are going to be adjacent to it. Things that we typically need to know are: the type of bath panel; in the case of a rectangular bath, the side(s) the panel is being installed; whether there is a shower over the bath; if it is a double-ended bath, which end is going to be most used; if there is any furniture or a shower cubicle immediately adjacent to the bath. Please give these details to the person taking your order or fax them to us with your daytime telephone number.

BATH AND BODY CARE

AROMATHERAPY BATH OILS

Mildly foaming, fragrant bath oil formulae blended especially for use in Whirlpool and Air-Spa baths...with 3% Essential oils! The air and water action of a whirlpool bath is one of the most effective means of releasing the true potential of essential oils to work on both the mind and body. In addition, a whirlpool bath continually recirculates the bath water ensuring even distribution of any essential oils added to the bath, thereby promoting:

ABSORPTION - The bubbling action of a whirlpool bath softens the skin and opens the pores, enabling the body to easily absorb essential oils.

INHALATION - The millions of bubbles created by the whirlpool system carry small molecules of the oil, gradually rising to the surface where they are transformed into a steamy vapour just above the water. The bather benefits by inhaling this aromatherapy vapour, rich in essential oils.

RELAXATION - The gently swirling waters of a hydro-massage system relax muscles and ease away the aches, pains, stresses and strains of the day. This promotes a sense of well being and sound sleep which in turn creates a relaxed body and mind, on which the essential oils can work to maximum effect.

TECHNICAL MATTERS

Pegasus hydromassage systems can be fitted to any bath and we can even offer a system to convert your existing bath into a luxury whirlpool bath without the need for removal. The work is usually carried out in less than a day and all we need to do is have the bath panel removed. The system will be water tested before our engineer leaves and all that is required is for a qualified electrician to make the final connection into the 13amp ring main.

How does a whirlpool work? Quite simply, water is taken from the bath through a suction fitting on the side of the bath and then recirculated back through a number of venturi in the sides of the bath. As part of the process the water is speeded up as it goes through the venturi and creates a vacuum into which air is drawn. This powerful stream of aerated water is then directed back into the bath. Our Turbo Sensations is a true Turbo, with its own compressor forcing air into the venturi to give added power and buoyancy in the bath.

All acrylic whirlpool baths are supplied factory-fitted and tested. All that is usually required is for the plumber to install the bath as he would ordinarily, and then for a qualified electrician to make the final electrical connection via a fused spur on the 13 amp ring main!

Both our Micro-jets and our Advantage jets use third generation whirlpool technology. All jets are individually piped for air and water from a distribution manifold. This avoids any stress being placed on the bath and ensures that the jets are fitted in the right place for the customer without compromising the bath manufacturer's specification for positioning of the bath support legs.

“It is unwise to pay too much, but it’s worse to pay too little. When you pay too much, you lose a little money - that is all. When you pay too little, you sometimes lose everything, because the thing you bought was incapable of doing the thing it was bought to do. The common law of business balance prohibits paying a little and getting a lot - it can’t be done. If you deal with the lowest bidder, it is well to add something for the risk you run. And if you do that, you will have enough to pay for something better.”
